TUESDAY NOVEMBER 2 @ 7PM ET:

This month we welcome special guest Cassidy Caron, Métis National Council President, to talk about Building a Strong Métis Nation and How Young People Can Help. Cassidy Caron is British Columbia born with roots in Saskatchewan and is a current resident of Ontario. On September 30, she was voted in as the new leader for the Métis National Council -- the first woman ever elected to the position.

Cassidy Caron has roots in the historic Métis communities of Batoche and St. Louis, Saskatchewan. With community always in her heart Cassidy is guided by her ancestors and mindful of the generations of leaders who will come after her. Cassidy recognizes the power of bringing together individuals from all walks of life to work in a spirit of collaboration and harmony, while respecting one another's history, traditions, ways of knowing and being, to co-create a positive pathway forward for all.
